1.

Who are Asylum Seekers and Refugees?

Asylum Seekers: are people who leave their country due to genuine fear of torture or persecution. Everyone has a right to claim asylum in another country and to have that claim considered fairly¹.

An Unaccompanied Asylum Seeking Child (UASC): is an asylum applicant who is less than 18 years old and has no adult relative or guardian to look after them at the time of application.

A Refugee: is a former Asylum Seeker whose claim for asylum has been accepted by the Government, and has been given a right to remain in the UK.

- ✓ All Asylum Seekers have a legal right to remain in the UK until the Government has fully considered their application and they have exhausted all their rights of appeal.
- ✓ If an asylum application is rejected on the final appeal, the Asylum Seeker is required to leave the UK or may be forcibly removed.

2.

Aren't they here for economic reasons?

No...

The top 10 nationalities for Asylum Seekers in the UK include:

- ✓ Afghanistan, Iraq, Zimbabwe, Iran, Eritrea, Somalia, Sri Lanka, China, Pakistan, and Nigeria.
- ✓ All these countries are well known for wars, human rights abuse, or oppressive regimes and explain some of the reasons why people from those countries seek asylum.

3.

Why don't Asylum Seekers ever work?

By law Asylum Seekers are not allowed to work. Some Asylum Seekers may apply for permission to work but only if they have not received a decision within 12 months of making an asylum application. Most Asylum Seekers are highly qualified professionals back in their home countries (including as Doctors, Lawyers, Engineers, Nurses, and Teachers).

The British Medical Association (BMA) maintains a voluntary database of Asylum Seeking and Refugee Doctors, and as at 4th March 2010;

- ✓ A total of 1297 such doctors were registered on their database.
- ✓ About 15% the doctors are now working with the NHS.
- ✓ 19% of them are "job ready", meaning they have passed the UK exams that make them qualified enough to work in the UK.
- ✓ 15 of the doctors live in the South West.
- ✓ The BMA estimates that there could be as many as 3000 refugee doctors, a valuable skill to the UK.
- ✓ A home office research indicates that most Asylum Seekers would prefer to work than be supported for free by the Government and charitable organisations.

4.

What support do they get from the Council?

- ✓ Asylum Seekers get their support from central Government
- ✓ Councils support UASC, but they get a Government grant for it.
- ✓ The council may look after Asylum Seekers who have special care needs but this is in exceptional circumstances.
- ✓ Councils can provide grants to local charities working with Asylum Seekers and Refugees, but not directly to the Asylum Seekers.

5.

What about jumping housing queues?

- ✓ Asylum Seekers are not eligible for Council housing. Their housing is supplied by Government contractors and private Land Lords.
- ✓ They are permitted to live there only for the period that their application is being considered.
- ✓ Councils may provide housing to Refugees, who must meet the same criteria for housing as everyone else.

6.

Do they get free TVs mobile phones and computers?

- No...
- ✓ Asylum Seeker houses are furnished with basic items like cookers and washing machines but not TVs.
 - ✓ These items do not belong to them, and will be used by the next asylum seeking family allocated to that house.
 - ✓ Mobile or home phones and computers are the responsibility of the Asylum Seeker and there is no entitlement to them.
 - ✓ Many Asylum Seekers may spend part of their weekly allowance on a mobile phone or a computer, because that could be the only means of getting in touch with their family back home.

7.

Do they get more benefits than other people?

No...at roughly £6 per day, Asylum Seekers get 30% less than the Job Seekers Allowance (JSA). The following table compares JSA and Income support with Asylum Seeker's weekly allowance.

Asylum Seeker Allowance	Weekly amount 2011 £s	Job Seekers Allowance/Income Support 2011	Weekly amount payable £s
Single adult 25 or over	47.25	Aged 25 or over	67.50
All Single adults 18 – 24	37.41	Aged 16-24	53.45
Lone parent 18 or over	47.25	Lone Parent 18 or over	67.50
Couple at least one of whom is 18 or over	74.17	Couple 18 or over	105.95
Child 16-18 (but special rules apply if an unaccompanied child)	37.41	Aged 16-24	53.45

8.

Doesn't the UK have more than its fair share of them?

Most Asylum Seekers in the world are from countries that are so far beyond the UK borders, that the UK is not the first destination for asylum.

- ✓ In many cases, the routes to the UK are too complicated, dangerous and expensive.
- ✓ Most Asylum Seekers will flee to their neighbouring countries first.
- ✓ According to United Nations figures, the UK is home to less than 2% of the world's Asylum Seekers and Refugees.
- ✓ The majority of Asylum Seekers and Refugees are supported by countries that are much poorer than the UK.
- ✓ "Africa hosts a staggering three million Refugees and nearly a third of these are hosted by just three countries in East Africa; Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania"².

9.

How many live in Plymouth?

- ✓ On average, there are around 400 Asylum Seekers living in Plymouth at any one time. This is 0.1% of Plymouth's total population, and a really tiny proportion of the world's Asylum Seekers and Refugees.

10.

Why does the council spend money translating things for them?

Local authorities (including the Council, the Police and the NHS will pay for the cost of interpretation and translation in order to...

- ✓ Improve people's ability to participate and understand how our local society works: This could include letting people know about our rubbish collection process in a language that they understand, which means our streets and homes can continue to be kept clean.
- ✓ Ensure fair access to information: Some important official documents may be made available in alternative languages. This is not done routinely, but following people's requests and in accordance to their needs.
- ✓ Get fair outcomes in the courts: Convicting the right people for the right crime is paramount to the British justice system. This means avoiding acquitting people simply because the courts could not understand their language, or even convicting innocent people simply because they could not defend themselves in English.
- ✓ Give accurate diagnosis and treatment to people: Doctors will decide what is wrong with their Patients by listening to descriptions of what they feel and looking at the results of any tests carried out. Interpreting the Patients language is therefore key to their treatment, and especially important to the process of diagnosing diseases (like Tuberculosis) which could spread to others.

Don't they increase crime levels?

No.. According to the association of chief police officers...

- ✓ There is no evidence that Asylum Seekers commit more crime than anyone else.
- ✓ Asylum Seekers are more likely to be victims of crime, even murder, because of who they are.

12.

Surely they are well off?

No.. Asylum Seekers are some of the most vulnerable people in our society. There are many Asylum Seekers who are here alone. It is not unusual for them to share their modest allowance with children and family who are still living in difficult conditions back home. This makes it harder for them to meet their own costs of living that most may depend on charitable handouts.

A study by Oxfam and the Refugee Council revealed that....

- ✓ 85% of Asylum Seekers experience hunger
- ✓ 95% cannot afford to buy clothes or shoes
- ✓ 80% are not able to maintain good health
