What is extra care housing?

Some older people end up living in a place they aren't happy with, simply because they want to please others or they don't want to be a burden to their family. Moving after an accident or an illness can mean there is not enough time to think about what you really want. If you think through your options in advance, you can make a positive choice for yourself.

Extra care housing offers a new way of supporting you to live independently for as long as you can with care and support staff on the premises 24 hours a day. It gives you the security and privacy of your own home with a range of facilities.

Extra care housing is sometimes called 'very sheltered housing'. The look of the accommodation varies enormously: some are new purpose built retirement villages, others are modernised sheltered housing schemes with extra services on site. Many offer a choice of accommodation such as flats or bungalows, for sale or rent. What all residents of extra care housing have in common is the security of owning or renting your own home, control over your finances and the peace of mind that goes with having care and support staff available on the schemes 24 hours a day.

You may be thinking of moving or having to leave your old home because of life changes or health problems. Or you may simply be unhappy with where you are living now. If you value your independence and privacy and want control and choices in your life, think about extra care housing. To find out what is available in your area see the 'Contacts' section on this leaflet. See the 'Money Issues' section if you are concerned about financial matters.

Iris, an extra care resident for three years

"Losing my home after my heart attack wasn't good, but I was very lonely and couldn't cope with the garden and housework. Here I get the help I need – my flat is cleaned and the washing done. I feel on top of things now."

What makes extra care housing different?

- You are living at home - not in a home
- You have your own front door – you decide who comes in
- Couples and friends can stay together
- There is a mix of able and less able older people
- Care and support staff on the schemes 24 hours a day – if you need them
- You get support to keep your independence
- You can join in social activities – or you can be private
- You have control over your finances
- You have security – the aim is a home for life

Can I afford extra care housing?

You can pay rent under a tenancy agreement, or you may be in a position to buy your home in an extra care housing scheme. Another option is to part-buy and part-rent your home (this is called 'shared ownership'). If the accommodation is provided by a housing association, the rent levels are usually regarded as 'affordable'.

Depending on your income, you may qualify for housing benefit for your rent. If you get housing benefit or income support you may also be entitled to free care and support services.

If you are thinking of moving into extra care housing it is important to find out exactly what it will cost you. You may qualify for benefits to meet all or part of the costs. Get advice and information from your citizen's advice bureau, or from one of the organisations listed at the end of this leaflet.

How much does extra care housing cost?

There are four elements to the cost of extra care housing:

- the cost of buying or renting your own home
- the service charges associated with your home, for maintenance and any communal facilities
- your care
- your support costs

The amount you pay will vary depending on your individual situation and your income. You may have to pay for all the costs, or you may be entitled to benefits to meet some or all of the costs.

Whether you already live in extra care housing or are thinking about a move, you may find that your care needs change. This can mean that you need different services at different times, and as a result, your care and support costs may increase or decrease. If this happens ask for a care assessment from your local adult social care department. Remember to keep a regular check on your entitlement to welfare benefits.

Some questions you may already be asking yourself:

Q I am managing on my own, but my health is not good and I want to move. Would extra care housing be suitable for me?

A Yes. Most extra care housing projects have a mix of more independent and able residents together with those who are very frail. Some will be getting a lot of care and support, others will be living independently. The accommodation will be accessible and it should be easy for you to manage.

Q I own my own home, but my friend is a council tenant. Could we both move into extra care housing?

A Yes. Some schemes offer homes to buy, others offer only rented accommodation, some are a mixture of owner-occupiers and tenants.

Q I already live in ordinary sheltered housing – how would extra care housing be different?

A The main difference is that care and support staff are on the premises 24 hours a day. Some schemes have a restaurant or a lunch club, social activities and other facilities. Different types of accommodation are available, and there is a mix of residents with different support needs. Plus your tenancy or ownership of your home is secure – you should not have to move if your needs change.

Q My husband is very unwell and we get a lot of help from our family and friends. Could we move into extra care housing together?

A Yes. You and your husband can stay together and your family and friends can continue to help as before if they want to, with the added support of the extra care staff. You may make new friends too!

Q My doctor has said I should go into a home. What are the advantages of extra care housing over a nursing or care home?

A Extra care housing shouldn't look or feel like an institution. You will have your own home, control over your finances, and privacy and choice about how much you mix with the other residents. The care staff will support you in looking after yourself for as long as possible, and you can keep up your usual routines and activities in the local area.

Q What happens if my health gets worse while I am living in extra care housing?

A It is expected that your needs will change over time - and not always for the worse! There may be times when you need a lot of care and support, times when you need no support or a mixture of the two. The care staff should be flexible and sensitive in asking you about what you need. They cannot give you nursing care, but they will aim to support you to stay living in the same place.

Q My mother has early signs of Alzheimer's disease. Can she move into extra care housing?

A Possibly. Most people who develop dementia after moving into extra care can continue to be supported in their familiar home surroundings by staff and friends as before. Some extra care housing has a special wing for new residents with dementia; others mix residents with different needs across the whole scheme.

Q What facilities and services are available on-site at extra care housing?

A The facilities range from dining areas and lounges to hobby rooms, shops and hairdressers. Health services are attached to our schemes offering access to a GP surgery and a district nurse. People from the surrounding area may also come in to use the facilities and resources.

Q Who is in charge of extra care housing?

A Most extra care housing projects are built and run by housing associations. Some are run by private companies or the local council. In Plymouth the care staff work under a contract from the local adult social care department. Extra care residents should be involved in making decisions on all aspects of the community they live in.

Q Can I stay until I die?

A Extra care housing aims to provide you with a home for life. This may not always be possible, for example if you become a risk to yourself or others, but it is the aim.

Q Is there an extra care housing scheme in Plymouth?

A Yes we have extra care housing schemes in the following areas:

- Efford
- Stoke
- Plymstock
- Cattedown
- Estover

Q How can I access extra care housing?

You will need to have an assessment of your needs completed by Plymouth City Council adult social care and will need to complete a Devon home Choice housing application form.

If you would like to find out more information about extra care housing you can talk to your care manager.

If you do not have a care manager but feel that you might be entitled to support from adult social care call our contact centre on 01752 668000 who can arrange for an assessment of your needs to be carried out.

What do residents say about extra care housing?

“You get the extra help you need without moving.”

“I see people every day, and at the end of the day I can lock my door and relax.”

“I have the best of both worlds here. The staff support me with things that I need - but they don’t do things for me.”

“I like being independent and I feel very secure.”

Personal Stories from Plymouth

Thomasina’s story

Thomasina aged 88; husband 89; married 64 years

“We were the first tenants into St Barnabus Court in Plymouth. It’s a lot better than old housing. Our flat is bigger. My living room would fit my old flat into it. The staff are lovely. “My husband isn’t well and doesn’t visit the social area much, but my family visit daily; they are lovely. The care staff help with personal care. I am walking more here, at my other address I had a wheelchair.

“Elderly people need these places when they can’t look after themselves. The main reason I moved was the other place wasn’t big enough and I couldn’t walk around. My health wasn’t good. My daughter found this place through the Council, then a lady interviewed me from the Housing Association. It has helped me mentally and we have a more positive outlook on life. My husband loves it here.”

John’s story

John is 82 years old.

“I live in a rented Council house and I went into hospital and then into residential care and my children got me moved. I have been on my own several years since my wife died. It’s very nice here. I am happy with it. It’s self-contained and I have help to plan the day. I like my independence. The carers help you. I get a call in the morning after breakfast to see if I’m all right, I also get community meal delivered every day. I can go down and have a yarn to other folk in the building.”
